An Astronomical DIARY: Or,

ALMANACK

For the Year of our Lord CHRIST,

1765.

Being the First after BISSEXTILE or LEAP-Year.

Calculated for the Meridian of BOSTON, NEW-ENGLAND, Lat. 42 Deg. 25 Min. North.

CONTAINING,

Eclipses; Ephemeris; Aspects; Spring Tides; Judgment of the Weather; Feasts and Fasts of the Church; Courts in Massachusetts-Bay, New-Hampshire, Connecticut, and Rhode-Island; Sun and Moon's Rising and Setting; Time of High Water; Roads, with the best Stages or Houses to put up at.—An Elegy on the Death of the [illegible]: Dr. Ames. Some practical Rules for Husbandry.

By NATHANIEL AMES.

AS thro' the Zodiack moves the changing Year,
The varying Stars go down and disappear;
The vernal Bloom the Summer Suns destroy,
And barren Winter blasts th' Autumnal Joy:
So change the human Race, around the Ball,
And gliding Generations rise and fall.
AMES, who in annual Labours long approv'd,
The Page consulted, and the Man belov'd,
Rapt thro' th' Etherial Space th' exalted Soul,
Sees Stars and Planets far beneath him roll:
But while from Earth the Parent-Mind is flown,
The grateful Publick bless the rising Son.

BOSTON: Printed and Sold by R. and S. Draper, in Newbury-street; Edes and Gill, and Green and Russell, in Queen street; and T. & J. Fleet, at the Heart and Crown in Cornhill. Sold also by the Booksellers.

Price: 3*s.* 4*d.* per Dozen, and 7 Coppers single.

READER,

BY a most heavy distressing Stroke of Providence, and seeing it was the Will of Heaven, I must not repine, being bereaved of the Author of Part of these Calculations, viz. the Ephemeris of the Planets Places, and the Rising and Setting of the Sun and Moon, for the fortieth Almanack he ever published, by his Son, am thus forced as it were, to make my unexpected, premature Appearance in Public; I was induced to finish this Almanack rather to please some intimate Friends, who were urgent to have it continued by the same Name, than by the Prospect of the Reward, which is indeed very small, or by any Fondness for commencing Author. I have been very anxious to have it become as useful as possible to those whose Oracle is an Almanack, such as are destitute of any other periodical Performance, as Magazines, or the like, or even News-Papers: The Piece on Agriculture I imagin'd might be as useful as any Thing, seeing such Instructions can be convey'd thro' no other Channel so conveniently as this, to those Persons who practice that Art; and any Observations or Improvements in that, or any Art or Manufacture, that would be really useful to the Community, will be very acceptable from any Gentlemen that please to favour me with 'em against another Year; for it is now become absolutely necessary that we begin to cultivate every Art and Manufacture that will help us to make Remittances to our Mother-Country, for the vast Quantities of Broad Cloths, and a Multitude of other less necessary Articles, for which this Country is now in debt: And also to enable us to bear up under the heavy Duties that have been laid on us since the Conclusion of the War, when one great Source of our Affluence was cut off, that supported so many idle Persons both in the Army and at Home, in so great Ease, that finding they must get a Living some how or other, and having but poor Stomachs to return to the Stall or Plough, from whence they came; some of them commence Quacks, and call themselves Doctors, having seen a Man that saw another Man cured of a very foul Gunshot by hot Oil of Turpentine, and heard their Grandmother say that Carduus Tea will vomit, and Fisingers are very cooling; or perhaps having exercis'd their Skill on passive Beasts, at length have the Audacity to practice their Butchery on the human Race; and upon the slightest Occasions, or oftener none at all, absent themselves from public Worship, to be thought Men of Business: thus without one Qualification necessary for a Physician they become famous Water Gruel Doctors. There

There is another Herd of these Drones as troublesome to the Gentlemen of the Bar, as the other is despicable in the Eye of a regular bred Physician, which are called Pettyfoggers; this is a Race made up, for the most Part, of the Dregs of Misfortune and Misconduct, join'd with a Deal of low Wit, and such a Sip of Learning as just intoxicates the Brain, as Pope has it, who, having suffered a Course of Law repeatedly, in Actions of Debt, Trespass, and perhaps criminal Actions too, at last get the Form of a Declaration pretty perfectly by Heart, run off to some different Part of the Continent, fill up Writs in the most trifling Causes, exciting Quarrels, thereby becoming downright Barrators, the very Pest of Society; and perhaps if they have a good Stock of Dissimulation they may get a certain Commission that commands my Silence.

"Titles are Marks of honest Men, and wise,
"The Fool or Knave that wears a Title, lies.

These are two Evils which it seems strange to my Shortsightedness, the Legislature of New England has not found a Remedy for, seeing these Animals might be employed for the Good of the Common Wealth in subduing our stubborn Soil, or in some other handy Work.

There is a third Species of these Clogs on our growing Wealth, as worthless as either of the former, who under the specious Pretence of Religion, and an alarming Conscience, walk to and fro, up and down the Earth sowing Sedition among Churches, raising Disputes about holy Trifles, destroying that universal Charity that ought to warm the Breast of every Christian towards every Class of Men that adore one Being of infinite Wisdom and Power, whether they call him JEHOVAH, or Jupiter, whether they worship him prostrate, and kneeling, or standing and setting; whether they light up Wax Tapers at Noon-Day to celebrate him, or are contented with the grand Luminary which he has placed in this "azure Vault," whether they who are appointed to tell us we must love Him, be cloathed in a white Robe, a black Gown, or black Coat; whether the Colour of their Skin happens to be white, olive, or sable; whether they speak our own, or an unknown Language; whether they wear an embroidered Coat and laced Hat, or a plain grey, woollen Coat and flopp'd Hat. Not only these Conditions, unequal indeed to Men of narrow Minds, perfectly equal in the Eye of the great Creator, but all the little foolish Differences of Opinion, are made the Signals of Hatred and Persecution, by these lay Pretenders, to serve that Being, who is so independent of every Thing created, that even the higheſt Angel can do him no Service, much leſs ſuch diminutive Atoms as Men, otherwiſe than by ſerving one another. Thus Reader, you have not my Opinion alone, but that of every Man of Senſe, viz. That every one ought to act in his own Sphere, that the Mechanics ought to diligently purſue their reſpective Occupations, nor trouble their Heads any farther with Law, Phyſic, or Divinity, than immediately concerns their own Wealth, Health, or Salvation; nor until ſome ſuch Regulations take Place, ſhall we ever be a flouriſhing People.

The Eclipſe on the 21ſt of March, as calculated and projected from the Tables of the lateſt Author on that Subject, and who is very much commended by the Reviewers, will be inviſible in Boſton; but as done by the greateſt Mathematician in America, from the Tables of the then greateſt Aſtronomer in Europe, it will be a ſmall Eclipſe, a little before the Time I have ſaid; but every one knows on whoſe Calculations we ought moſt to depend. It is hoped that Gentlemen of Curioſity, eſpecially ſuch as are favoured with a clear Horriſon and Teleſcopes will make critical Obſervations. The Title-Page Verſe is the Favour of a worthy Friend. Reader, adieu!

N. AMES.

Six Eclipſes this Year; all inviſible.

THE firſt of the SUN, February 19th, about a Quarter paſt Eleven o'Clock, at Night.

Second of the MOON, March 7th, at 8 o'Clock Morning, total above an Hour and an Half to thoſe who have the Moon above the Horrizon.

HAIL sacred Wisdom, in whose blest Abode,
Unravell'd Nature, clearly speaks the God;
Where Virtue's Sons shall full Protection find,
Where Vice or Dulness ne'er disturb the Mind,
Where Love and Joy eternally reside,
Nor Fame and Affluence swell the Mind with Pride.

Fruit of licentious Love next Winter.

"UPON this World, this Pageantry of Show,
This gaudy, g'aring, chequer'd Masquerade,
Each wishes something, Wisdom can't bestow,
And seeking Greatness, is of Want afraid.
To Thee! sage Goddess, for my self I call;
I ask no Greatness, and I fear no fall."

If we are bleſs'd with a great Store,
The Name of GOD let Us adore!

IF Life you want, undaſh'd with Woe,
Serene enjoy the inſtant Now;
If Fortune ſmiles, enjoy the Ray,
And ſmile her very Gloom away;
Let Tempeſts ſweep and Billows roar,
The Storm of Life ſhall ſoon be o'er.

An ELEGY

On the Death of the late Dr. AMES.

ON troubl'd Seas when Life's full Sails are swell'd
By Blasts of Passion, ne'er by Reason quell'd,
The fleeting Forms that in Life's Vision dance,
The futile Pleasures of this Scene enhance:
But Death approaches! when calm Reason rules,
And real Scenes rush dismal on our Souls.
Ye Youth who now with cold Indifference view,
A worthy Parent, perhaps scorn him too,
Oh! yet, while Fate delays th' impending Woe,
Be rouz'd to Thought! anticipate the Blow,

Left, unexpected, in funereal Gloom,
With me you bend o'er some untimely Tomb,
Or your sad Frame with inward Grief you wear,
And almost think Heav'n's sacred Doom severe.
Oh! stop ye Dreams!—ye dear Illusions stay!—
Methinks I see the re-inspired Clay!
Lo! pleasing Smiles his guileless Heart declare,
Behold him healing with successful Care.
Kind——as the Turtle to her unfledg'd Young,
Indulgent——oft when I requested wrong.
Still let me listen while his Words impart
Instructions mild, that captivate the Heart,
And all the Soul, each Tumult charm'd away,
Yields gently led, to Virtue's easy Sway.
Adorn'd by Thee, bright Virtue! Age is young,
And Musick warbles on the faultering Tongue,
Thy Ray creative cheers the clouded Brow,
Touches the faded Cheek with rosy Glow,
Illumes the joyless Aspect, and supplies
A lively Lustre to the languid Eyes;
Each Look, each Accent, while it awes, invites,
And Age with every youthful Charm delights.
But here, alas! the pleasing Vision's flown,
I see him struggling! hear his dying Groan!
Behold his Visage with dire Spasms wrung!
The fainter Sounds just 'scape his parched Tongue,
His flutt'ring Pulse—now stops—now beats—now done!
His Soul now leaps!—returns—and now quite gone!
Oh cruel Death! of ev'ry Rule forlorn,
Or thou might'st spare the Oak to take the Thorn;
Why miss thy erring Darts the worthless Drones.
Does Heav'n no more protect its virtuous Sons?——
Pardon my vain Grief! Reason take the Reins,
His Soul is freed! while we endure the Pains,
'Scap'd the dark Dungeon, does the Slave complain,
Nor bless the Hand that broke the galling Chain?
Say, pines not Virtue for the ling'ring Morn,
Doom'd in this Midnight Waste to stray forlorn?
Oh! happy Stroke that breaks the Bonds of Clay,
Darts thro' the bursting Gloom the Blaze of Day,
And wings the Soul with boundless Flight to soar,
Where Dangers threat, and Fears alarm no more.
Ye Sluices of my Eyes, suppress your Tears,
His ravish'd Soul now roves among the Stars.

Some Practical Rules for Husbandry.

IT is obſervable that there are more ignorant Men who practice Huſbandry than any other Art; yet there are fewer who think they can be taught; wherefore I expect the following Rules will not be univerſally regarded at firſt by our Gentlemen Farmers as they ought, altho' they are founded not only on Reaſon, but the real Experience of ſome ingenious Country Gentlemen who have reaped prodigious Profit thereby, to the ſurprize of their Neighbours. It is alſo found by Experiment, that any Soil will produce any Vegetable of either of the India's with a proper Degree of Heat and rightly manured. But to the Purpoſe,

Beſides Marle, which was deſcribed in laſt Year's Almanack, there are other Kinds of Manure of equal worth when rightly apply'd to their proper Soil. I ſhall diſtinguiſh all Lands by two ſorts, viz. the heavy Soil and light Soil, and mention their proper Manure under each. An heavy Soil is compoſed of deep hard Clays; all ſtiff, chalky, binding Earths, and ſuch as after being expoſed to Sun and Froſt, rather bake into hard Lumps than crumble into Duſt; this Soil evidently requires ſuch a kind of Manure as will ſeparate its Particles, for which Purpoſe ſome Gentlemen in England have lately been at the Trouble of burning Clay to put on their clayey Soil for want of ſome brittle Manure. Lands for Engliſh Grain ought to be ploughed in the Spring as ſoon as the firſt Thaw will permit, that they may have the benefit of all the Dews and Rains, which carry down innumerable nutricious Particles that floated about in the Air, and form an imperceptible Cruſt upon the Earth, which is the ſuppoſed Cauſe of its Fertility, but whether it is or not, it is found by Experience that frequent Tillage and turning in this Cruſt is equal to any mucking of Land. After this firſt Ploughing it will be neceſſary to manure this heavy Soil with one of theſe Manures, Sea Sand, 25 Loads upon an Acre, of common Sand not leſs than 100, of Sea Ouſe, or the Filth and Mud between high and low Water Mark; and that of the lighteſt kind for this Soil 20 Loads, of Sheep's Dung mixt with Sand 15 Loads, or of common Dung 20 Loads on an Acre; and be ſure have it all ploughed in before the laſt of July, and after you have got it as mellow and crumbly as poſſible, near the End of September ſow it with Wheat choſen and prepared as follows, put your Seed into a large Tub of Water and ſtir it well about, and only all the Grain that ſinks will be fit to ſow, put it into a very ſtrong Brine and let it ſtay there at leaſt a

Day and half, then take it out and ſpread it on a clean Floor ſprinkle on it plenty of ſlacked Lime, and ſtir it about till the Grains are cruſted over with the Lime, then ſow two Buſhels on an Acre, and thus prepared it will bear no rival. In October after reaping ſet Fire to the Stubble, which grows ſo thick after the Ground and Seed has been thus prepared, that the Aſhes will be as good as common dunging. The next Year ſow it with Barley prepared as above, and in May, when the Ground is hard and dry, let a Horſe draw a heavy Roller made of a green Log over the whole, which will not only level the Land for the Mowers, but make the Roots ſpread and nouriſh a vaſtly fuller Grain. After your Barley is got in, plough in the Stubble and ſow it again with Wheat as at firſt; but now you will ſpoil your Land if you try another Crop of Grain, be content with as great Profit another way, which is this, burn the Stubble, Plough and Harrow, and make it very ſoft, in September ſow it with nothing but Flanders Clover Seed, 20 Pounds to an Acre; ſet it be ſteeped in Soot and Urine before it is ſowed; after the Ground is frozen hard lay on it eight or ten Loads of either of the above Manures to an Acre, thus your Clover will thrive amazingly for three Years, but at the End of the third Summer you muſt break it up and ſow it with Grain again three Years, without manuring, and ſo proceed it will always hold good and fertile.

Lands of the light Soil are diſtinguiſhed by their being ſandy, mouldering, gravelly, warm, mellow, looſe, open Earths, not eaſily ſet or eaſily drying after Rain, not binding, or growing hard by Heats in Summer or Frosts in Winter. The Manure proper for this Soil is either Marl, Clay (excellent for gravelly Land) Sheeps Dung mixed with fat Earth, Sea Ooſe of the black fat kind, all ſorts of Mud of Rivers, Ponds, Ditches &c. which are the Riches of the adjacent Soil; or for want of theſe new Dung. Lands of this Nature are managed near like thoſe of the heavy Soil, only the fourth Year inſtead of Clover it would be beſt to lay this down with St. Foyne, a foreign Graſs, it yields five Years prodigiouſly, and is the beſt in the known World for a Dairy, and it greatly ſweetens the Land it grows on.

N. B. The Clover ſown as above is an excellent Thing to keep Hogs, and the greateſt Profit can be made of it that way of any.

Hemp will grow on any Land if rightly manured; and if well dreſſed it is worth Sixty-eight Pounds Lawful Money per Ton beſides a large Bounty.
